ELEVATING FAMILIES Today and Tomorrow

2019 ANNUAL REPORT
Another year is behind us, and our team at Focus on the Family is praising God for all He accomplished through our ministry in fiscal year 2019! We continue laboring tirelessly to save and strengthen marriages, equip parents to raise godly children, advocate for the sanctity of human life, encourage biblical citizenship and engagement of the culture, and spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ far and wide. Our endeavors are furthered immeasurably by the gracious and sacrificial partnership of those who believe in what we’re doing, and I’m privileged to offer you the following overview of our impact from our annual ministry experience and national surveys:

- Evangelism lies at the heart of our mission, and we rejoice in knowing that thousands of folks have embraced Christ as their Lord and Savior as a direct result of our outreach. Our research indicates that Focus materials and initiatives have prompted 293,000 individuals in the last year to make a commitment to Christ for the first time or to recommit their lives to Him. We’re especially excited that we’ve been able to help 39,000 children make a salvation decision over the past year, and that an estimated 1.53 million people have grown stronger in their faith thanks to our ministry.

- As we carry on the marriage-related aspect of our work, I hope you’re as heartened as I am to know that thousands of couples are experiencing healed and flourishing marriages today due to our efforts. Not only is our Hope Restored marriage intensive program having a hand in assisting marriages in crisis, but our various other marital resources are positively impacting many additional husbands and wives looking to enhance their relationships. During the last year, approximately 808,000 couples have built stronger marriages with our help, and we’ve been able to come alongside 144,000 couples who were facing a major marital crisis.

- We strongly affirm the irreplaceable role that parents play in raising healthy, mature, and caring children. With that in mind, I’m especially pleased to let you know that our work in this area has allowed more than 172,000 parents to successfully navigate a significant crisis involving their children. Meanwhile, an estimated 770,000 moms and dads report that our outreach has been instrumental in realizing their goals to build stronger, healthier families that are centered on the Lord and His Word.

- We are wholeheartedly committed to defending and upholding the sanctity of human life, especially at a time when pro-life values are coming under increasing assault across the culture. Thankfully, our Option Ultrasound program continues helping save preborn lives. In fact, since 2004 when this initiative was launched, we estimate that over 459,000 precious little ones have been spared from abortion through our Option Ultrasound program, and we are aiming to help save a total of one million babies by 2025. It’s incredible to think of the children and teens who are alive today because so many caring folks have partnered with us to equip pregnancy resource centers with sonogram technology and training.

- Now more than ever, the culture needs Christians who will participate in the public square and articulate their values in an engaging, respectful manner. We desire to help our fellow believers achieve this objective, and I’m delighted to report that we’ve been able to spur on more than 1.15 million people to influence their communities for Christ.

I hope you’re uplifted and inspired by these highlights of Focus’ life-changing, family-building impact over the past year. I can’t emphasize enough how grateful we are for those who have seen fit to join hands with us. May you be encouraged by the additional details that are provided within the following pages. God’s abundant blessings to you and your loved ones throughout the coming days!
I was newly divorced and a single parent to three kids. They were struggling to understand and accept the divorce (like any child would) and their father’s sudden new relationship. My family therapist recommended Focus on the Family, and I started reading every article, listening to every podcast, and getting recommended books. I applied the parenting tips and was able to provide a healthy, stable environment for my kids and help them through the stages. It’s a constant learning experience being a parent, and I look to Focus as God’s assistant principal in this school of life! I cannot adequately put into words the depth of my gratitude!

Thank you, Focus on the Family, for the resources you make available to help prevent abortions. When my young niece was pregnant, her first call was to Focus, where she received loving counseling and guidance. Her daughter is a beautiful 10-year-old who loves the Lord!

Guidelines for Fundraising

Here at Focus on the Family, we believe that the way an organization handles its finances is a reflection of its integrity and reliability in every arena. As a result, we have chosen to limit and regulate our methods of money management with great care. Here are the principles and policies that have guided us through the years:

1. We believe that this ministry belongs to God and that we are merely His managers and stewards. Our role can be summed up in a single phrase: to stay accountable to His objectives, interests and concerns.

2. The Lord gives and the Lord takes away (Job 1:21). As long as He supplies the means, we will continue to serve others in His name. If He closes the door and cuts off our support, we will regard this as an indication of His sovereign will. We understand that the future of His work in the world does not depend upon the survival of this organization.

3. God sustains this work through the generosity of His people. Focus’ continuation as a ministry is directly dependent upon their willingness and ability to give. It follows that our friends need to know about our financial circumstances. Accordingly, we will not hesitate to provide them with relevant information, both in the good times and in the bad. But we will not beg or resort to disrespectful or dishonorable methods of fundraising, since this would only be to insult their sensibilities and disavow our confidence in the Lord. Nor will we ever attempt to raise more money than we need.

4. In the same attitude of high regard for those who make our ministry possible, we will never sell or rent our donor database. On the contrary, we will treat our supporters’ personal information as a solemn trust and maintain the tightest security on our list of contributors and friends.

5. We believe that a Christian’s first financial obligation is to the church; we have no desire to come between our friends and the local congregations to which they belong and from which they derive their spiritual sustenance. As a result, we do not expect them to contribute to our ministry until after they have supported the work of God’s kingdom in their own faith communities.

6. For similar reasons, we will resist the temptation to run the ministry at a deficit. If on occasion it becomes necessary to borrow funds to cover large and unforeseen expenditures, we will do our best to repay the loans as quickly as possible. When we make a purchase, we will pay the invoice within 30 days.

7. We will implement measures to ensure fairness and accountability in all of our financial interactions with donors and supporters. To be specific, we will receipt all donations and show the fair market value of any materials requested and sent in order to help contributors determine the tax-deductible portion of their gifts.

8. As a way of holding ourselves accountable to the principles articulated above, we will conform to the standards established by the Evangelical Council for Financial Accountability (ECFA), an organization created to ensure ethical fundraising and administration practices.

These, then, are the principles that have defined our philosophy of financial stewardship and shaped our approach to fundraising. They are based upon a firm conviction that everything we are and everything we have comes to us by the grace of God. Provided we remain faithful, we are confident that the Lord will sustain us while His purposes for this ministry endure.
